

MICROSOFT TECHNICAL SCAM SITES

In recent years that have been a number of internet scams which have cheated people in the United States and the United Kingdom of hundreds of thousands of dollars.

The best source for finding out how these scams work is through the Youtube videos made by Jim Browning.

I will give you a list of the these videos so you can watch them for yourself, and so if you receive a telephone call from one of these scammers, you will know not to pay them any money under any circumstances.

These scams may purport to come from Microsoft, either from the U.K. or the U.S., but in reality most of these are situated in Indian cities.

When you hear someone with an Indian accent giving an English name, then you will know that you are speaking to a scammer who is out to scam you out of your money.

Here are some of Jim's videos:

These will be enough to give you a good idea of what happens with these scams.

Jim Browning is experienced at dealing with scammers and has prevented many people losing their money. He is well set up and knows what he is doing.

There are other scam baiting videos out there, but they do it for entertainment purposes only. Their method is to spend as much time on the telephone with the scammer to waste their time, delete their files, shut down their computers, and even shut down whole Indian call centres. But we must be careful about this because in many countries it is illegal to hack into the computers of other people.

I like Jim Browning's methods, because he works to prevent as many people as he can losing their money to scammers, and he accesses the scammers' files in order to find and locate those who are or have been scammed, to stop them paying the money, or working to get their money back.
